Social Media and Genealogy-Tuesday, May 15, 1:30 to 3:00, FREE

Have you used Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Pinterest, or blogs and wondered if you could use them for genealogy? Lena will teach you the best ways to protect yourself while using these social media tools for sharing and collaborating with others. She will also demonstrate how to create your own private and secure group page on FaceBook, and your own genealogy Pinterest board.

Lena Harmon has been doing genealogy for 40+ years. She has served as a past director of the Redding CA Family History Center, and as a world-wide FamilySearch Support Missionary who offers support to individuals around the globe for family history products supported by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She is currently serving as the Shasta Genealogical Society editor and webmaster. Her passion is to teach people how to do genealogy the “right” way the first time. Her specialty is keeping up with the changes in technology, new websites, and new software programs as they become available, so she can teach them to others.

Jehus from Siskiyou, Stagecoaching in Northern California-Saturday, May 19, 1:30- 3:00 FREE

Have you ever wondered how our ancestors got around before the advent of trains? Come hear the exciting story of stagecoaches and their fearless drivers. Kathy Graves will present a program reflecting her research as she introduces audience members to the world of stage-coaching in Northern California and into parts of Southern Oregon.

Kathy Graves worked in the public education world for 37 years as a teacher of elementary age children, a school librarian, and later as the county library media center director. According to her parents, Kathy was born a horse-crazy child, but did not discover horse-drawn carriage-driving until sometime around 2002. A love of local history and the discovery of an original mud wagon stored at the local fairgrounds fueled an interest in stagecoaches and the stagecoach era, and a desire to learn more about that world. Kathy has spent many happy hours driving along portions of what was the California-Oregon Stage Road, aka “The Big Road,” in both Siskiyou County in California, and Jackson County in Oregon, visiting extant stage stations and reading about the lives and adventures of all of the stake-holders in the stage-coaching world (drivers, passengers, hostlers, farriers, the horses, the stage stations and stops).

April Public Program

Those of us who were fortunate enough to see the movie, “Grace’s Visit to Rogue River Valley” hosted by Ben Truwe had a wonderful experience. It was quite exhilarating to see the Valley as it was in 1915, and Mr. Truwe's narration was both informative and entertaining. Seeing the amount of effort the locals put into the program; and the turn-of-the-century ideas of humor, acting, and “high-class entertainment” were fun as well. All that was missing was Milk Duds and popcorn!! Thank you to Ben Truwe for this wonderful trip to the past!

All monthly programs are open to the public and free of charge! Come join us!

Grants Pass Genealogical Society's 50th Anniversary

In 1968 nineteen family historians got together to form a genealogy club in Josephine County. After composing bylaws and finding a place to hold meetings they named their club the Grants Pass Genealogical Society. Since that time, the Grants Pass Genealogical Society has been in continuous operation with a focus to educate and mentor anyone interested in tracing his or her family history.

Among the first services offered to members and the community were free genealogy workshops held twice a month for many years. Fund raising focused on donating genealogy books to the Josephine County Library in Grants Pass, and a partnership with the PAF Users Group located at the Grants Pass Family History Center.

For many years obituaries from the Grants Pass Daily Courier were compiled into a book and placed at the Josephine County Library, Grants Pass Family History Center, and the Family History Library in Salt Lake Utah.

Over the years the Grants Pass Genealogical Society has evolved and kept up with new research tools, providing an informative Facebook page and webpage. Going back to its roots, the Grants Pass Genealogical Society continues to mentor and provide interesting speakers at monthly meetings, co-host the October Community Seminar, produce a monthly newsletter, and sponsor a free genealogy workshop each September.

Plans to celebrate the 50th anniversary include an anniversary luncheon on May 8th, a float in the Boatnik parade on Memorial Day weekend, a special guest speaker on September 11, and awarding a $500 scholarship to a college-bound youth from a local high school.

The Grants Pass Genealogical Society continues to live up to its slogan, "Educating Family Historians for Over 50 Years."

The changes are proposed to bring the Society in line with State law, allow more flexibility in governance of the society, allow for more flexibility in appointing directors to the Board, bring our policies in line with practices, while still ensuring protection for the Society as a whole and complying with State of Oregon laws for non-profits.

Please click here to download the proposed changes in a PDF file.

In accordance with the Bylaws, the Board will bring the proposed changes to the general membership for a vote at the next regular Society meeting in May. If you have questions or concerns, please email President Anne Billeter at president.rvgs@gmail.com.

Financial News - Annual Fund Drive Launch

Be on the lookout in your mail for the RVGS Annual Fund Drive letter! In place of a variety of rummage and baked good sales, the Society's primary fund raiser is the Annual Fund Drive. Your generous contributions, big or small, make it possible to continue to keep our library open and running. Thank you for your continued support!

Spring Seminar - We Were Wowed!

Thanks to Rick and Pam Sayre, we now know a lot more about The Power of Google Earth. The challenge is to find the time to explore the immense and intriguing possibilities for tracking our ancestors across the country and the world; for locating them on land ownership maps; for creating map stories about our ancestors and their places; and much, much more. And that was just the jam-packed two-hour workshop on Friday.

During Saturday's Seminar, Rick brought us a much fuller understanding of the richness of military resources, and a clearer realization of the importance of knowing about the war, knowing the records for each war, and knowing the law. The pension laws varied on who was eligible and when, and kept changing. Some provided pensions only for soldiers disabled during the war; later pensions were awarded based on length of service, then there were the detailed rules for widows and children of soldiers which also changed from law to law and war to war. The in-depth study of the Civil War provided a much clearer recognition of the details available to the serious and careful researcher.

During Saturday's Seminar, Pam provided us with an in-depth analysis of the history of Missouri, a crossroads state with Spanish and French land grants, a land divided by its physical characteristics and shaped by a bit of politics as well as geography. Anyone with ancestors who settled even briefly in Missouri gained a great deal of understanding of how these factors affected who settled where in the state. Those who don't have Missouri ancestors got a glimpse of how an in-depth analysis of their ancestors' states will aid them in understanding why their ancestors settled where they did. Pam also revealed the treasure of research resources for our many rural ancestors. Were they farmers? Were they small manufacturers? Now we know how much more we can find out about them and where to look.

Spring Raffle

Congratulations to the winners of our Spring Raffle, Roanne Lyall and Christy Austermann!

Rogue Digger Contributors Needed

Do you have an interesting story about researching your ancestors? Did you receive unexpected DNA results that changed your research goals? How about the story of an object, e.g., a quilt, a ring, an old pot, that led you on a search or shed light on your family or local history? Have you found a technique or resource that has helped you in your research or that might help others? Have you discovered something interesting in local history or genealogy that you would be willing to write about and share with our membership? If your answer to any of the above questions is YES, our semi-annual publication, The Rogue Digger, needs you!

The Rogue Digger is a genealogical periodical that reports information helpful to researchers, as well as the results of genealogical investigations, especially as related to the Rogue Valley or to our membership. Submissions can be a mere page long or up to 10 pages long with or without photos or illustrations. If you have an idea but don't quite know how to pull it together, our editor can advise and help; contact her at caradavisjacobson@gmail.com.

JACKSON COUNTY GENEALOGY LIBRARY NEWS

Jackson County Cemetery Map Project

RVGS has partnered with the Jackson County GIS (Geographic Information System) mapping department to link the RVGS Cemetery Project with their mapping technology. Click here to go the Jackson County Cemetery application. Once there, you can zoom in on any public cemetery in the county. (Hint – the splashes of green on the map are the cemeteries.) If you can't find the cemetery you are looking for, just begin typing the name in the search box at the top of the screen. Once you find a cemetery, click on it and an information box will pop up. Click on the cemetery photo, and you will be taken to the JCGL Cemetery/Death Records webpage. There is also a link at the top of the Jackson County map screen that goes directly to our site. Happy exploring!

Spotlight on Historic Cemetery Preservation

Volunteers of the Jackson County Genealogy Library (JCGL) became aware that records of many unknown or forgotten burial sites were not represented in the library's massive cemetery records collection. Efforts are now underway to add to the records collection. This one in a series of articles describing newly discovered cemeteries and burial sites throughout the county.

"James Lewis Geary" headstone

Geary Cemetery by Chuck Eccleston

The small Geary Cemetery can be seen alongside Elk Creek Road several miles from its intersection with Crater Lake Highway. Four markers are located within the weather worn split rail fence. The most prominent is the tall stone for 13-year-old James Lewis Geary. He was born on January 9, 1887, and died on Christmas Day, December 25, 1900. A second marker for Jimmie Geary is nearby. The remaining two markers are for 25-year-old Erwin Shoemaker (1882 - 1907) and the "Day Hawk" infant girl (1926 - 1926). These three markers are each a short one-legged metal mortuary marker with text in a small window listing name, date of birth and death.

James was the oldest of eight children born to Samuel E. and Maggie J. Geary. James' father, Samuel, is listed as a seven-year-old son in the Jackson County 1870 census along with six siblings, all born to Lewis C. And Maranda M. Geary. Lewis was a wagon maker from Pennsylvania, and his wife Maranda was from Tennessee. Land records indicate that this site is located in the vicinity of the Geary family farm.

Erwin Shoemaker and Day Hawk names did not appear in the Jackson County records searched for this article.

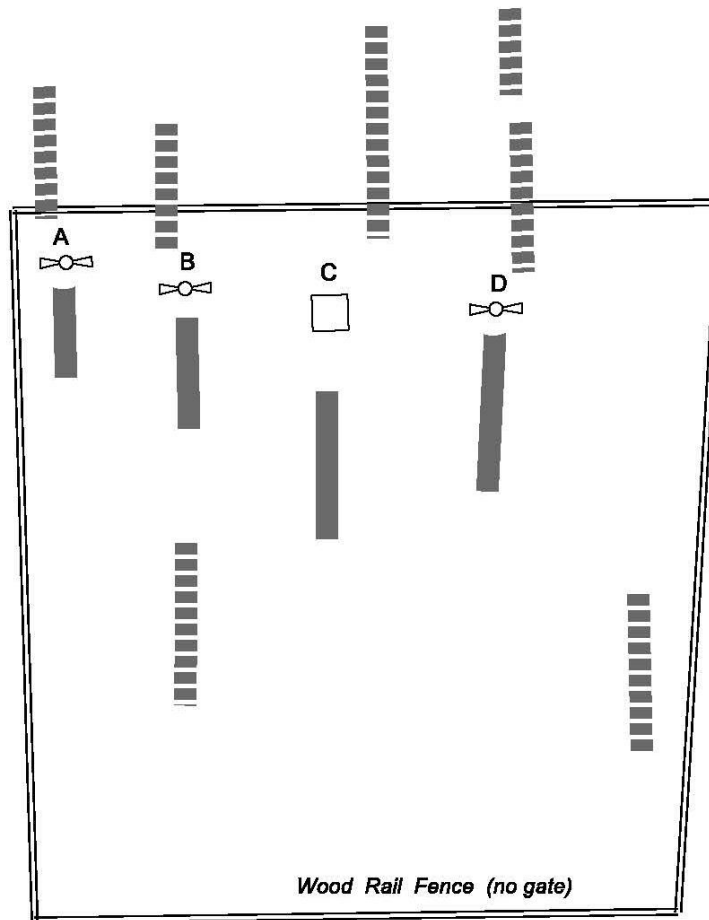

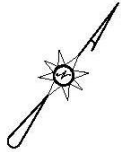

The relatively young ages of the persons buried in this plot suggest the possibility of additional unmarked graves. A survey using the dowsing rod method located 13 unmarked graves within and around the cemetery fence. A map of the cemetery follows this article. A paper copy of the map is filed in the Cemetery Records at the Jackson County Genealogy Library.

NEWSPAPER RESOURCES at Jackson County Genealogy Library
by Andrea Patterson and Anne Billeter

Newspaper research is growing in popularity, as has the concern that many of the newspaper subscription websites have grown too expensive for our society to offer at the present time. Here are some suggestions for alternatives to the newspaper subscription websites:

1. Several of the subscription websites JCGL subscribes to include some newspaper research options. The biggest selection is found at My Heritage by scrolling down and finding “Newspapers” in the list of resources on the right side of the screen. Fold3 has 54 titles listed under “Non-military Records – Newspapers.” Both Ancestry and American Ancestors have abstracted vital records (mostly marriages and deaths) in newspapers. Searching newspapers on Find My Past will provide a goodly number of hits, but our library edition does not provide actual access. (The citations are still leads to possible clues, though.)
2. Chronicling America provides free access to digitized newspapers from 1789 – 1963, although most stop in 1922 due to copyright. More newspapers continue to be added. This site also provides a complete list of all newspapers published in the United States from 1690 to the present, a very useful resource for genealogists!
3. Fulton Postcards is an amazing website with an incredible number of old New York newspapers and some from other states, too. It started with postcards of Fulton, New York, but morphed!
4. Historic Oregon Newspapers and California Historic Newspaper Project are just two more examples of the FREE digitized newspapers websites available on the Internet. Try a Google search for the state where your ancestors lived.
5. Cyndi's List. Search under “United States – (name of state) – Newspapers.”

Newspaper research has its own search challenges, often requiring our knowledge of the place of publication, specific dates, etc. Be sure to try many different searches such as one name in quotes, and especially “exact” or “advanced” searches to save time. Don’t forget that many newspapers served as a regional newspaper. The local Ashland Tidings is a good example: When it began in 1878 Medford literally did not exist, and even after it started to develop, the Ashland Tidings was the regional newspaper for many years. You may find a similar newspaper near where your ancestors lived.

Keep in mind that all these websites are a work in progress. Check back with them often to see if your area has a new publication. See you at the library and Happy Hunting.

Packing Materials Needed

Our faithful book-selling volunteers need shipping materials to ship the books they have sold for the library on Amazon. They need bubble wrap, foam sheets, small boxes, and new or used bubble envelopes. If you can donate any of these, please drop off the supplies at the library reception desk.

SOHS – A Rich Resource Now More Available

As a result of the new contract between the Southern Oregon Historical Society (SOHS) and the Jackson County Library District (JCLD), the SOHS Research Library and Archives resources are more available to Jackson County residents. The SOHS Research Library's hours have been expanded: The Library is now open Tuesday through Saturday, noon to 4:00, and the use fee has been waived for Jackson County residents. The contract also will result in Internet access to many more digitized photos and full-text documents on the SOHS website. All the issues of the Society's magazine are available online at SOHS Magazines, which includes a link to an index and links to each issue. What is now Southern Oregon History Today began in 1981 as the Table Rock Sentinel and continued under a variety of titles with varying frequency. Explore the SOHS website for fascinating glimpses into Jackson County history, and a rich resource for researchers.

Volunteer Opportunities

We are proud to be all-volunteer organization. We would not exist without the time and energy our volunteers give each month. If you want to help share the responsibilities, give of your time to help us continue to provide our many services to our members.

If you are interested in any of the positions below, please Email Anne Billeter at president.rvgs@gmail.com for more information and/or to volunteer.

Summer Video Hosts Needed

The Education Committee is now setting up the Summer "Tutorial Tuesdays," where each Tuesday evening during the summer we will run a tutorial/interest video from one of the websites we carry at the library. If you are interested in being the host for one of these evenings (run the video and answer questions afterward), please email Denise Salthouse or let one of the Education Committee members know!

Magazine Reviewer

Be the first to see our genealogy magazines! List them for the next issue of the eNews and highlight interesting articles. See recent back issues of the eNews for examples.

Ashland Chamber of Commerce Greeter

Share the JCGL story with the Ashland business community: Share what we have to offer and what upcoming events we have. The Ashland Chamber Greeters meet every Friday at 8:00 a.m. at a different member business each week. We need someone to represent RVGS at least monthly to share our story. Volunteer for a few hours each month and make a difference for RVGS.

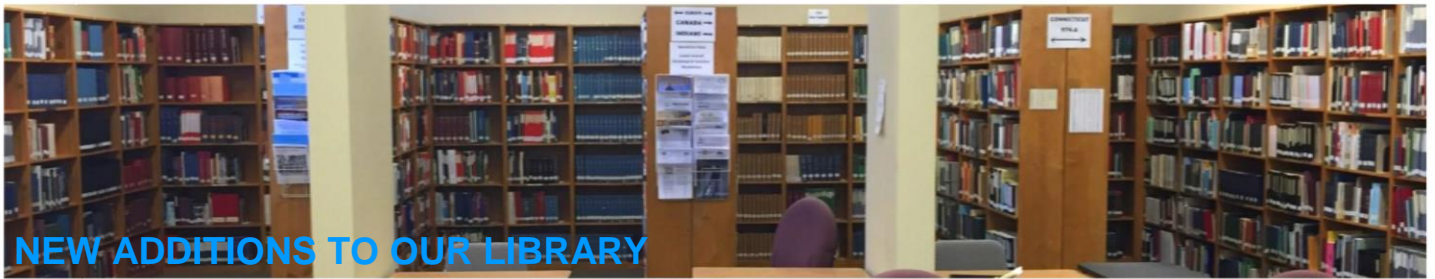

RVGS Historian

Help! Our RVGS history is being neglected. Do you enjoy gathering information and presenting it in a creative and informative way? This may be the perfect volunteer position for you.

Hospitality Helpers

Help make the magic of our wonderful programs happen. We are looking for Hospitality Helpers, providing set up of coffee and refreshments, as well as clean up at our third Tuesday at 1:30 programs. If you can help please email Denise Salthouse.
